College Exceeds Campaign Goal by 132%

The College of Letters and Science had set a goal to raise $70 million in philanthropic contributions during UC Davis’ first-ever comprehensive fundraising campaign, known as The Campaign for UC Davis. On May 31, UC Davis announced its successful conclusion by raising $1.1 billion from nearly 110,000 donors. The campaign began in 2006 with an ambitious goal to raise $1 billion from 100,000 donors. Thanks to so many generous supporters, this goal was achieved nearly a year earlier than anticipated.

The College of Letters and Science raised a total of $92.5 million, exceeding its goal by 132 percent.

“The gifts made to the college during The Campaign for UC Davis have already made a significant impact on students, faculty and programs,” said Shari Kawelo, interim assistant dean for College Relations and Development.

Philanthropy Makes the Difference

Over the past eight years, state funding has dropped to nine percent of UC Davis’ budget. (In 2007, it was at 22 percent.) At the same time, undergraduate tuition has increased 56 percent.

Philanthropic gifts help close the budget gap, making a difference for students, programs, faculty, research and facilities.
Fiscal Year 2013-14 Was Second Highest in College's Fundraising History

Along with the successful completion of the campaign, the college also celebrated the end of a banner year in fundraising for departments, programs, faculty and students. In total, $22 million was raised in the fiscal year 2013-14, the second highest total in fundraising history for the college.

“The we are grateful for every dollar received, as it represents the trust and confidence of donors who care enough to help sustain and strengthen the college, and make the very best education accessible to our next generation of leaders,” said Kawelo. “It is a commitment we don’t take lightly and inspires us to do better every day.”

The college’s annual fund, which supports the areas of greatest need in the college, received over $75,000 in contributions from 845 donors in fiscal year 2013–14.

“We are grateful for every dollar received.”

—Shari Kawelo, interim assistant dean for College Relations and Development

College of Letters and Science Annual Fund

Over the course of the campaign, nearly 19,000 gifts totaling $1.7 million were donated to the college’s annual fund. These donations have allowed the college to provide students and faculty with the best possible learning environment through faculty support, student scholarships and fellowships, and program-enriching activities.

Funds raised helped the college:
• Recruit and retain key faculty positions
• Support students through scholarships and graduate fellowships.
• Support events, conferences, and faculty lectures.
• Support faculty research.
• Create new majors and new programs due to the increasing size of the student body.
Young Society Dollars in Action

• The Department of Physics purchased 12 new oscilloscopes for the Physics 116 lab, which are used in experiments studying the effects of voltage.

• An art exhibit “Between the Quotes: Work by UC Davis Art Faculty” showcased faculty talent at the Pence Gallery in downtown Davis.

• Funds supplemented the W. Turrentine Jackson Graduate Fellowship, which is awarded to a graduate student concentrating in the history of the United States West.
The Herbert A. Young Society was established to recognize donors who contribute $1,000 or more to the College of Letters and Science Annual Fund. Gifts are used by the college’s three divisional deans to purchase new lab equipment for students, underwrite conferences and symposiums that bring together students, faculty and scholars on topics of mutual interest, and bring visiting scholars to the university to enhance students’ classroom experiences. These gifts are also used to provide recognition awards to outstanding students and faculty.

This year, contributions totaled over $100,000. Over the course of the campaign, the college received over 2,300 gifts totaling more than $1 million!

Through their gifts, Young Society members directly support innovative ideas, novel research, important lectures, new technologies and other projects that might otherwise remain unfunded.

Deans’ Advisory Council

The College of Letters and Science’s Deans’ Advisory Council (DAC) was established at the beginning of The Campaign for UC Davis to help with specific fundraising priorities for the college and to engage and reach out to the college’s 85,000+ alumni. The council has effectively helped raise awareness of the areas most needing support for the college, specifically student scholarships, faculty research and teaching, and programs that enhance and enrich students’ educational experience.

Matching gifts help donors expand the impact of their contributions. Many companies sponsor matching gift programs that amplify the impact of their employees’ personal contributions without increasing the obligation of the individual donor. Thanks to all of the companies who participated. Check to see if your company matches donations: matchinggifts.com/ucdavis
As the College of Letters and Science continues to grow, philanthropic support is the key to give students and faculty the best opportunities possible.

We look forward to working with you, our generous supporters, in the coming years. Thank you for your enduring support.

For more information on how you can help support the college, contact (530) 752-3429 or lsdevelopment@ucdavis.edu.

“A Look to the Future

The campaign was a tremendous success. But what’s next? We need to raise the bar, set new goals, new time frames, new objectives and go for it!”

—Darryl Goss ’83, Chair, Deans’ Advisory Council
